

Tip 15: Create Cordial Relationships with the Organization's Management

Maintaining cordial relations with as many of the company managers as possible will help in the end

- Never disregard the relationship you have with the company management

Doing so will be to your advantage

- Get to know their viewpoints and ensure you understand their plans for the company as well as how scrum fits in the overall picture

Their decisions can make or break you; therefore, try as much as possible to work well with them while maintaining a strong stance on the values of scrum.

In Summary

- Understand the company principles so you can work well with management.
- Choose to work well with management because this will be advantageous for you and your team.
- When power plays happen, maintain a level head and keep out of it if it does not affect the operations of your team.

In Summary

- Understand the company principles so you can work well with management.
- Choose to work well with management because this will be advantageous for you and your team.
- When power plays happen, maintain a level head and keep out of it if it does not affect the operations of your team.
- Always gain a reputation for maintaining a strong stance on the values of scrum while maintaining and respecting the management of the organisation.